There is no water to drink. Can't you drink milk?

Love live the people!

Before Arakawa Hiromu became a mangaka, she spent 7 years in Hokkaido working in the farming business. She raised cows, planted crops, and was afraid of bears and constantly being turned around in circles by squirrels. There was never any time for rest. Plus there was a lot of necessary and hard work.

There is no water to drink. Can't you drink milk?

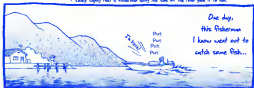

That is because she is a "Noble Farmer"! Here is Japan's first manga to describe the facts about farming! Common sense in farming isn't necessarily your everyday common sense.

water to drink.
Can't drink
milk?

* Really saying that a fisherman along the side of the road sure is to him.

The fishy wild plants.

Heard that there was a lot of corn growing in the cornfield accessible by land.
